EndNote: Problems saving Styles

Your user account may not have proper permissions to the style/filter/connection folder location, which can cause errors. Your network administrators may have also restricted access to this location. Note: In Windows Vista with versions prior to EndNote X2, without disabling Vista security features, users will not be able to modify or add files to the default directory.

Here are the steps to resolve the problem:

1. Quit EndNote
2. Open the current EndNote Styles folder and copy the style files from the Styles folder from:

   EndNote X2 and later:

   Note: EndNote X2 and later versions create by default a user folder for content files in Documents, so the steps here should not be required for EndNote X2 or later.

   - Windows Vista
     C:\Users\(your login)\Documents\EndNote\Styles
   - Windows XP
     C:\Documents and Settings\(your login)\My Documents\EndNote\Styles
   - Mac OS X
     /Users/(your login)/Documents/EndNote/Styles

   Where (n) is the version number.

3. Restart EndNote and go to the EndNote Preferences. On Windows, Preferences can be found at the bottom of the "Edit" menu. On a Mac OS X system, the Preferences can be found in the "EndNote" menu. Then go to the Folder Locations option.
4. For the Styles folder option, select the "Select Folder" option and then select the new location for your styles. Click Save, then Click Ok.

   Note: You can repeat the above steps for the "Filters" folder and the "Connections" folder if required.

http://kbportal.thomson.com/display/2/kb/article.aspx?aid=82230