

Library services to distance students at Linköping University

As a student attending a distance course at Linköping University, you have access to the University's library services.

The day after your course registration is done, you will get a LiU-ID. This will give you access to the Library's electronic resources (e.g. e-books and databases).

More about how to Search and use.

If you want to borrow print copies of books, you will need a LiU-card. As a student attending a distance course it is possible for you to get one, but you will have to do it in person on campus.

More about LiU-ID and LiU-card.

If it is not possible for you to come to Linköping University Library in person, you can borrow print copies of books as interlibrary loans through your local library.

Copies of journal articles from our print collection can be sent to you without charge. Use the interlibrary request form to order:

Request article

Other copies of articles, you will have to order through your local library. This might entail local or other fees.

Otherwise, the same library rules apply to distance students as to other library patrons.

Library Rules and Regulations

If you have any questions regarding library services, you are welcome to contact us via email, chat or phone:

Ask and contact us